

Fly (Acoustic)

Meadowlark

Count the stones at your feet, love
Dig your toes in the sand, can you feel the beat
Of your heart as it slows down

Won't you fly with me
Oh, save me

Keep your young brittle bones in the skin you love
Keep them safe; keep them dry and high
'Cause your lungs are designed to withstand the sea
So let go, look away, breathe
Put your faith in someone's hands

Won't you fly with me
Oh, save me

All the things you never told me
All the things you never told me
Back down
Fly now

All the things you never told me
All the things you never told me
Back down
Fly now

So won't you fly with me
Oh, save me
