

World to Cry

The dB's

You think you know it all but what do you know
You think you love someone but where did it go
You learn to trust yourself but not for long
You think you're the one that wrote the very last love song
You try to catch yourself before you fall
You try to brace yourself when you're up against the wall
It was so easy when we knew how to fight
You think you're the one that taught the world to cry
You taught the world to cry, you taught the world to cry
You think you're the one that taught the world to cry
And once you've had the best, the rest won't do
And when it's all over it's all over for you
And when you ask yourself just what went wrong
Is there time to sing just one more love song
Cry cry cry till you're misunderstood
Dry your eyes like it does any good
Cry cry cry and when your crying is through
Will there be anyone left to cry for you
You taught the world to cry, you taught the world to cry
You think you're the one that taught the world to cry
Sometimes you pinch yourself just to see if it's real
Sometimes you choke yourself just to see how it feels
And when you ask yourself the reason why
You think you're the one
You think you're the one
Yeah you think you're the one that taught the world to cry
You think you're the one that taught the world to cry
You taught the world to cry, you taught the world to cry
You think you're the one that taught the world to cry
You taught the world to cry, you taught the world to cry
You think you're the one
Well so did I, I, I, I

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>