Empty Streets

Ghost Beach

I know a woman
She's as cold as a stone
And she hides in the shadows
Of an empty road
I tried to break her
But she couldn't be broke
And we walked together
On this empty roadI need a lover
Not just another
Not just somebody to spend the night
You want my reasons I couldn't tell you
And if I didn't it wouldn't release your mindI need a happy
To keep me unhappyPretty girls born in the 90's
They don't know much 'bout '85
They're alive
I'm barely breathing
Wanna remember what that feels likeI need a lover
Not just another
Not just somebody to spend the night
Don't need an answer
Don't need a reason
Thing's gonna fuck, but that's alrightI need a happy
To keep me unhappy
Walking on empty streetsI give up Walking on empty streets
Cause they're filed with faces of people I never need
I run through the valleys
Between buildings of concrete
All I hear are the echoes
What I want is the heart b-b-beatingI need happy To keep me unhappy
Walking on empty streets [x2]
