Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Are you still lost tonight
Living but dead inside?
This is the proclamation
This is the call to rise Are you abused alone
Walking with broken bones?
If you feel you've been forgotten
Let this song guide you home We are the disillusioned
We've been left wanting more
Before every aspiration
Hits the floor Hold on for your life
All we feel is so far from alive
The damned, they're done believing
And the cursed can dream no more
So hold on for your life
Because only the strong survive They tell you what you should be
They sell you their plastic dreams
Opinions are all provided
But nothing is what it seems I dare you to take control
'Cause empty your hands and bruised are the souls
Of those who show no resistance
And those who are weak below We are the disenchanteds
We die with each passing day
And no one here understands us
So I say Hold on for your life
All we feel is so far from alive
The damned, they're done believing
And the cursed can dream no more
So hold on for your life
Because only the strong survive How will it feel to live your life
Until your dying day when nothing is real?
As we sacrifice
Bending until we break It's been revealed

Hold on for your life
Dreams are not theirs to take
The dreams are not theirs to take Hold on for your life
All we feel is so far from alive
The damned, they're done believing
And the cursed can dream no more
So hold on for your life
Because only the strong, I said, only the strong survive
