

Shoulders & Arms

Tokyo Police Club

Another stone rolls over
The republic is just one more year older
 But way out in the distance
We see your white boots glisten in the sun
 We know you've come here with a plan
 To lift our city out of ruin
 Shoulders back and arms at our sides
We sincerely hope you know just what you're doing
 Another stone rolls over
 The republic is just one more year older
 But way out in the distance
We see you draw your pistols and aim at us
 At first we try to reason with you
 But you suggest we say our prayers
 Shoulder back and arms in the sky
We sincerely hope you live a better life
 'Cause you, you're so calm
 I don't know where you are from
 You, you're so young
 I don't care what you've done wrong
