

I Try To Talk To You (feat. John Grant)

Hercules and Love Affair

We could have skipped this part.
I could have taught you how to love yourself.
I waited patiently.
I hope that you would be the one to come to me.
I try to talk to you.
I thought that you'd recognize the need
That you have deep inside,
But you have to get there by yourself. I don't understand, help me please, tell me everything and make me see.
You know that I will give you anything.
I take away your pain and I take away the sting.
I don't understand, help me please, tell me everything and make me see.
You know that I will give you anything.
I take away your pain and I take away the sting. You didn't have to go.
You didn't have to add this to your next.
You let'em use you good.
Then they turn around and say: you're sick.
Is this what you deserve?
You're just a man, another human being
And will you listen now? This doesn't have to be the way things end. I don't understand, help me please, tell me everything and make me see.
You know that I will give you anything
I take away your pain and I take away the sting
I don't understand, help me please, tell me everything and make me see.
You know that I will give you anything
I take away your pain and I take away the sting.
