Raining In Paradise

Tamar Kaprelian

As you walk, through the night
Sleep until your wings are resting on the clouds
When your heart, when your heart's on fire
Novembers going to hear your whispers in the dark
Waves of innocence will soon reside
Sail the tides of fate while you're aliveIf everyone you love is drifting down the waters
If every rose you hold withers through the years
And if the lights around you are blinding
It's raining in paradiseAs you walk, through the night
Heavens gonna help your will and soul collide
Meditate, in this state of mind
Decembers gonna heal your faith tonight
Emerald moons will light the seas below
This lullaby will guide this ship to where it needs to goIf everyone you love is drifting down the waters
If every rose you hold withers through the years
And if the lights around you are blinding
It's raining in paradiseAs we lay dreaming
All perfections will admit to have their faults
Remember any rain that falls will pass as quickly as it comesIf everyone you love is drifting down the waters
If every rose you hold withers through the years
And if the lights around you are blinding
It's raining in paradise
