My Armour

Kathryn Calder

The sun reflects my thinking
Well before I've woken up
Bright skies in the morning
I never feel I've slept enough
I melt, I ache, it's all I do effortlessly
Mornings with my baby
Sleepy eyes and newly greenWill you lie in my open arms,
Will you be my only armour?The longer we're together,
The more I want to always see
Sunsets in the evening
To look back on the day that's been
We hope, we plan, it's all I do so effortlessly
Evenings for redemption
Sleepy eyes and full of dreamsWill you lie in my open arms,
Will you be my only armour?
