

Hospital Food

The Arlenes

Just a little something for the pain
Hospital food getting you down?
Honey, now I'm not one to complain
But, but this hangin' around
Is wearing me out So patch me up, boys, take me home
Are you not hearing a word I say?
She sounds so different on the phone
I just sink like a stone
Back to the day Tell me something
Tell me something
I don't already know
Tell me something
Tell me something
I don't know Don't seem to have that much to show
For all the hard work, the sweat and toil
You say, "Well, that's right"
And you should know You've been there before
You've basked in the glow
You've stood in the roar
You've tasted the snow Tell me something
Tell me something
I don't already know
Tell me something
Tell me something
I don't already Seeing it all so beautiful
The way it oughta be
Seeing it all so beautiful
And turning away
Turning away
Turning away Tell, tell
Tell me, tell me, tell me
Tell me, tell me, tell me Tell me something
Tell me something
I don't already know
Tell me something
Tell me something
I don't already know
