Fear & Trembling

Civilian

Woman sent to slept around was rounding up and hunted down and by the hair they drop her out into the dusty street

The man then spit upon the whore Disgust in no one eyes but yours You knelled to thumb a masterpiece and the bastards dropped their stones So anyone who's every made a mess of things should have mercy, mercy

I have found true love to be An open eyes of disbelief A broken heart that drops its' jaw and lets you kiss its' cheek

Somedays I am torn between if Judas is more you then me
The risen King that seems to speak to anyone but me
So forgive me
I don't what to do with you I want to, I really want to

So anyone with a heart to know
This mystery, fear and trembling And anyone who couldn't make sense of things should have mercy Fear and trembling for they truly know before the fight the undertow
