

Still Boy

Kashmir

hiding out behind the birch and frozen lakes fewer things seem clearer here and my mistakes don't fill out the capacious bags that I dragged upstairs gives me time to grow a love where I had fear show long will you wait at the shady end of the slope am I already late
with my pyramid sized hopes still boy holds his breath till something appears all dumb all deaf all turned over to the wolves stepping out of everything to nothingness course at every tick of the clock our time weighs a little less show long will you wait
at the shady end of the slope
am I already late
till something appears
still boy waves his hand one time too many
to the wolves like the chickens need the fox and daylight longs for the dark I excuse myself to go and make my mark still boy holds his breath
till something appears
still boy waves his hand one time to many
to the wolves
