In The Back Of Your Mind

The Rembrandts

Well, she would never say she loved me But this I somehow knew There'd come a day, she'd leave me lonely As I was sure the sky is blue By the time I woke the mornin' She was already up and gone You're in my every memory And I wonder is it me that you see In the back of your mind In the back of your mind And though she's lost to me forever Our secret will remain There in the nights we spent together On earth, we're bound by love in vain 'Til the sky above has fallen We'll be together once again You're in my every memory And I wonder is it me that you see In the back of your mind In the back of your mind And when the sky above has fallen We'll be together once again You're in my every memory And I wonder is it me that you see In the back of your mind In the back of your mind When the sky above has fallen We'll be together once again You're in my every memory And I wonder is it me that you see In the back of your mind In the back of your mind
