Go On

H. P. Baxxter & Rick J. Jordan

i met a girl traveling 'round the world, leaving pieces behind she said she'd wait for me, i can't make her see that she's called to other skies i can't be her place to hide it's comin' up, it's comin' up again (live here long to make her stay) and what are you doin' in my head? and why did you call me when you're dead!? (go on!)
so go on, go and take on the world (building castles, building castles!) expand your wings across the sky, take my words and say good-night and never say good-bye maybe in another time, you could have been mine expand your wings and fly and look to the sky it's comin' up, (don't forget to write me) it's comin' up again indulge in everything you'll see (what are you doin' in my head?)

and why did you call me when you're dead!? (go on!)
so go on, go and take on the world (building castles, building castles!)
expand your wings across the sky, take my words and say good-night and never say good-bye so follow all your dreams whatever, whatever they may be so follow all your dreams whatever, whatever they may be (go on!)
so go on, go and take on the world (building castles, building castles!)
expand your wings across the sky, take my words and say good-night and never say good-bye
expand your wings and fly and look to the sky
expand your wings and fly
expand your wings and fly
