

Your Swaying Arms

Deacon Blue

Send me back all the things she ever wrote
Tell me secrets of her days when she was young
Show me nights when she laughed, so innocent
I'll be happy, waiting till they come Love the people that she smiled upon Walk with me on streets where she once stood
Say if it could be that we once passed like strangers
Long before the love we ever knew 'Cause I've been longing for a new world waiting
I've been hoping to be sent
I've been picking up all the love we squandered
Until you hold me in your swaying arms again One day I can see us walking
Arm and arm in sheltered Kelvin way
Talking and tripping and teasing
And heading for the best part of the day When your head will fall softly on our pillow
No fear will make you cry or turn you gray
We will wake so early in the morning
Knowing you'll never, never, never go away 'Cause I've been longing for a new world waiting
I've been hoping to be sent
I've been picking up all the love we squandered
Until you hold me in your swaying arms again 'Cause I've been longing for a new world waiting
I've been hoping to be sent
I've been picking up all the love we squandered
Until you hold me in your swaying arms again
Until you rest me in your loving arms again In your arms
In your swaying arms
Your swaying arms Hold me
Bless me now
Hold me
Hold me now Hold me, hold me, hold me
In your arms
Hold me Your swaying arms
Your swaying arms
Now hold me
