More From This Life

Auryn

I never saw you try to pick yourself up
I tried to tell you, but you were convinced you were stuck.
I never interfered with your own personal plans.
God, I wanted to help you,
but you wouldn't take hold of my hands.
I wanted more from this life than you could ever ask for.
I was building up a temple, you were getting drunk and knocking yours to the floor.I never figured you would get so bad.
I thought you would wake up, but you only got mad.
I tried to be open, but you kept yourself locked up.
All the feelings you were feeling,
you wouldn't share the pain that fucked you up.CHORUSAnd now we're so distant, distant by more than just space.
Because I'm out here living a passion and you are out of place.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/