Everything

Project Silence

EverythingEverything will always be the same for me and everything will turn out fine and everything will bring me down and this life could be mine and yours too and everythingEverythingEverything will always be the same for me and
everything will turn out fine
and everything will bring me down
and hear these words I will promise this right now for you2x I will not believe it when you take me for granted I will not believe it when you do this to meEverything will always be the same for me and
everything will turn out fine
and everything will bring me down
and this life could be mine and yours too and everythingEverythingEverything will always be the same for me and
everything will turn out fine
and everything will bring me down and hear these words; I will promise this right now for youI keep you here with me I taste your lips and kiss your hips and never turn away from you and I weep with you and i will never lose you and I will keep you with me and never hurt youEverything will always be the same for me and
everything will turn out fine
and everything will bring me down
and this life could be mine and yours too and everythingEverythingEverything will always be the same for me and
everything will turn out fine
and everything will bring me down
and hear these words I will promise this right now for you2x I will not believe it when you take me for granted
I will not believe it when you do this to me

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/