

A Match Made In Heaven

Architects (UK)

Tell me was it all worth it, to watch your kingdom grow?

    All the anchors in the ocean haven't sunk this low

Sunk this low(Rotten to the core)So who's left to count the cost?

    Beneath the ruin lies a story of the lives lost

    Now we're gone, left without a trace

But we took something they cannot replaceA match made in heaven, paved the road to hell

    We've been down this path before

    Cold blooded retribution

So fuck your revolutionYou chew up peace and spit it out as war

    You've been feeding the wolf that's waiting at the door

    You are rotten to the core

    We found your fingerprints all over the trigger

If you're looking for tyrants, take a look in the mirror

    You knew all along, that the cancer would spread

    So don't be surprised to find a price on your head

    Sorry son, but we destroyed your home

    We murdered your family, now you're on your own

    Collateral damage, face down in the sand

Watch the dominoes fall, it's all just part of the planA match made in heaven

    Paved the road to hell

    We've been down this path before

    Cold blooded retribution

So fuck your revolutionA match made in heaven

    Paved the road to hell

    We've been down this path before

And every execution, the price of your collusionYou knew all along, that the cancer would spread

So don't be surprised to find a price on your headTell me was it all worth it, to watch your kingdom grow?

    All the anchors in the ocean haven't sunk this low

    Sunk this lowYou are rotten to the core

    Songwriters

ALEX DEAN, SAM CARTER, TOM SEARLE, DAN SEARLEPublished by Lyrics Â© MOTHERSHIP MUSIC PUBLISHING

    Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlrics.com/>