

Fake Light From the Sun

Fiction Plane

Fake light from the sun
it's driving me mad it's poisoned our good names somebody said the sky's turning red no one can be trusted
I want you to know that the sky's full of wires
fake light from the sun
it's all in my mind
your nature is so kind
this water taste better when I have been fooled your absence is so cruel nobody can know
I just want control I see enemies always they hide in the trees insidious fleas cause cancer in strange ways I want you to know that the sky's full of wires
