Come Alive

Eternal Summers

I want something new Can't explain exactly what it is
How to get through
How to whisper screams from the insideAll the ways I wish I'd come alive
All the ways I wishDreams were mostly true Opposite of what it is that dims me darker blue Holding breath one barely can survive
In a gasp I know I'll come alive
And the fear insideCan't confine, control, and conquer me again
Even to the bitter bitter endI want something new
A fundamental element that's trueIn a sea of soul I'll come alive
What was dead insideCan't confine, control, and conquer me again
Can't inflate the fear forcing me to descendThis time
I'm gonna ward off the ghosts of life
This time
I'm setting the heart to right
This time
This time
I want something new
A fundamental element that bubbles to a brew
That washes all the remnants of the sickness that I knew That maps a path that guides me to a sky of higher blue
I've broken the cocoon from the insideAll the ways in which I've come alive
All the ways in which I've come alive
