

Turn up the Radio

OK Go

Turn up the radio and turn off the lights.
I want it loud as hell, I want the walls to melt, 'cause I got to lose myself tonight.
So turn off the lights.'Cause now the world's turned down a stop,
Fading all the brights on the maybes and the mights,
And I should have known the hammer would drop,
'Cause something must be wrong if everything is right.And nothing's gonna stop us now,
Yeah nothing's gonna stop us now.Turn up the radio and turn off the lights.
I want it loud as hell, I want the walls to melt, 'cause I got to lose myself tonight.
Yeah I got to let it all go tonight, yeah I got to let it all go tonight,
So turn up the radio and turn off the lights.You know, it's always just inches shy
Of everything is just right, everything is blue sky,
But how huge that divide,
And the hungrier the ghost, the more it opens wide.And nothing's gonna stop us now,
Yeah nothing's gonna stop us now.Turn up the radio and turn off the lights.
I want it loud as hell, I want the walls to melt, 'cause I got to lose myself tonight.
Yeah I got to let it all go tonight, yeah I got to let it all go tonight,
So turn up the radio and turn off the lights.So just tell me what's going on.So turn up the radio and turn off the lights.
I want it loud as hell, I want the walls to melt, 'cause I got to lose myself tonight.
Yeah I got to let all go tonight, yeah I got to lose myself tonight
Yeah I got to lose myself tonight
So turn off the lights
'Cause I got to let all go tonight, yeah I got to lose myself tonight,
So turn off the lights.
