Do You Remember Me?

Ribbon

Hello, do you remember me? I'm a song that you maybe already heard from anybody elseThey took some other melody But it's still what it used to be Those same old boring three chords and a stupid melodyThere comes a middle part this part will break my heart
'cause I know that it used to be played so much better than the play it right now player so much better than they play it right nowHello, do you remember me? I'm a song that used to be already played by anybody elseThey changed some of the melody but it's still what it's always been
The same old boring three chords and a stupid melodyThere comes the middle part this part's gonna break my heart
'cause I know that it used to be played so much better
thaan they play it right now played so much better than they play it right nowHello, do you remember me? I'm a song you definately heard already a hundred times beforeThey stole some other melody but it's still what it used to be Those same old boring three chords and a stupid melodyThere comes a middle part (again) this time it makes me fart
'cause I know that another band would play it so much better than they play it right nowHello, do you remember me? I'm a song you definately heard already a hundred times beforeThey stole some other melody but it's still what it used to be Those same old boring three chords and a stupid melody d a stupid melody d a stupid melody

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/