

When This Dream Is Over

Andy Prieboy

Have a drink,
Make believe,
Tonight this life's a party that they threw for you and me.
Place your hand
?round my arm
God protect the children and the fools like us from harm
Alleluia! to the sinners and the losers
Glory in the highest, to the love that still blows.

See the lights,
On the pier
It's a lovely world we live in when we make it disappear.
See the stars,
How they shine
They have blown a million miles, and they landed in your eyes
Holy, holy! Like a river we go rolling
Turning broken glass to diamonds,
Turning blood back to wine.

Now I,
Know that tonight,
Won't be here tomorrow
I'll be sorry, sad and sober
I'll still believe in you
When this dream is over.

What's the price,
I don't care
I have thrown away my wallet or I left it God knows where.
I don't mind,
Cause I'm sure
I may lose my fortune but I'll only love you more.
Tonight the angels bring the bells
And beat the devil
But the light of day will melt away
Our City of Gold.

Now I,
I know that tonight
God help us tomorrow

When we are sorry, sad and sober
I'll still believe in you
When this dream is over.
I'll still believe in you
When this dream is over.
