Why

Girls In The Eighties

hey boy take a look at me straight through the eyes where you can see my reality it's not hard for you to realize that you were the one I wanted but you killed me inside now I can't pretend why did this have to end (Chorus)
You love her, you hate her I can't take this anymore you You lose her, you use her I am lost and know not what to do Why'd this have to end? the bitter sweetness is all that stands the more I try you fall through my hands so many things to watch out for baby you know I can't take anymore I cry time and time again you try but there's nothing to defend (Chorus)

and I know I can live without you although things have changed I'm not sure if I regret all those things that we said but I know I can live
hey boy take a look at me
straight through the eyes
where you can see my reality
it's not hard for you to realize
that you were the one I wanted
but you killed me inside
now I can't pretend
why did this have to end
why did this have to end
why did this have to end

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/