Medicate Me

The Trophy Fire

small room, bright lights nothing novel in my sights its killing me without the kindness im an early century cliche typeface, no ink im focused on nothing well, nothing new by any accord im so bored of being bored medicate me i hope these chemicals wont deceive me medicate me i want something new to take me then release me whats something new to trust to help me shake this rust? building up beneath me nipping at my heels frenzy of noise static posed as poise im emptied out, Im cored im so bored of being bored take a breath, slow my heartbeat to where it should be medicate me i hope these chemicals wont defeat me medicate me i want something new to take me then to free me
