Turntable

TLC

I used to walk around like nothing could happen to me

Life is a gamble so I should live life more carefully

But all I know is that I control my own destiny

Lused to look at others instead of me blaming meDon't ask yourself why in

I used to look at others instead of me blaming meDon't ask yourself why just look to the sky Believe that soon you'll see the other sideI know that through all the struggle

> Theres a bright road at the end of the tunnel Now you should know whatever your dilemma Maybe you'll learn, life is worth it

Watch the tables turn

Yeah, yeah, yeahWhenever you feel troubled with problems coming your way
Don't ever get discouraged, there's always a better day

We all don't know the answers, believe and trust when I say

That havin' faith is always the way to make things okayDon't ask yourself why just look to the sky Believe that soon you'll see the other sideI know that through all the struggle

There's a bright road at the end of the tunnel
Now you should know whatever your dilemma
Maybe you'll learn, life is worth it
Watch the tables turn

Thats right, alrightYou've had your ups and downs and it happened for a reason 'Cause after April showers there will come a change of season So please don't give up now 'cause the sun's shinin' through the clouds It's gonna be alright, 'cause I knowI know that through all the struggle

Theres a bright road at the end of the tunnel Now you should know whatever your dilemma Maybe you'll learn, life is worth it

Watch the tables turnI know that through all the struggle

Theres a bright road at the end of the tunnel

Now you should know whatever your dilemma

Maybe you'll learn, life is worth it

Watch the tables turnWatch the tables turn

Watch the tables turn

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/