

Lonely World

Bryan Greenberg

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Such a lonely boy
Couldn't find the joy within
Such a lonely girl
Such a lonely world we're living in
I watch it all go by Can't find a tear to cry, a tear to cry, a tear to cry It's so obvious how they need each other
Wanting, bleeding, hurting, but they keep it covered
Till it's one big lie
Can't say hello cause they fear goodbyes
Well they fear goodbyes, they fear goodbyes He don't say much when there ain't much to say
She waits for his response she waits all day
The world keeps spinning in a silent scream
And I keep waking in these dying dreams I asked her for the time she said my timing was off
But I got this pain inside she said it's all you got I got this feeling that life is passing me by I'm a couple years late but I'm here tonight, I'm here tonight, well I'm here tonight He don't say much when there ain't much to say
She waits for his response she waits all day
The world keeps spinning in a silent scream
And I keep waking in these dying dreams Such a lonely boy
Such a lonely girl
It's such a lonely world
