Upon the Road Again

Upon the Road Again

Pass to me the empty glass - I will flow it over
Past and present friends may talk - laugh and sing together
I'll not forget your smiling face - no one else can take your place
I will sing those songs for you - upon the road again.

How on those cold and dreary nights - we would sing together
How could I have known it then - we would part forever
There is wisdom in our time - surely we will always rhyme
I will sing those songs for you - upon the road again.

Too much pleasure too much pain - everyone is feeling
We'll reach out and touch again - the music made for healing
I may run and I may hide - memories I can't deny
I will sing those songs for you - upon the road again.

Pass the glass filled to the brim - we'll drink to your health together
Think nothing of the rising sun - we'll walk this way forever
And if at times I seem to stray - it looks as though I've lost my way
I will sing those songs for you - upon the road again.

Pass to me the empty glass - I will flow it over
Past and present friends may talk - laugh and sing together
I'll not forget your smiling face - no one else can take your place
I will sing those songs for you - upon the road again.
Upon the road again.
