Your Own Worst Enemy

Alice Cooper

You're your own worst enemy You're a walking catastropheYou get up every morning On the wrong side of the bed You butter your hand instead of your bread Drink enough coffee to wake up the deadYou're doing 85 and the light is turning red The judge took your license and forbid you to drive And your heart is pumping bacon And you're barely aliveYou're your own worst enemy You're a walking catastrophe You're at war with yourself and nobody else You're a danger, you're a dangerYou trip on your shoelace and fall on your face Your hair is a mess, your clothes are disgrace Your stocks went south and your girlfriend is gay Your dog ate your cat and that was your good dayYou're your own worst enemy You're a walking catastrophe You're at war with yourself and nobody else You're a dangerYou're your own worst enemy You're a walking catastrophe You're at war with yourself and nobody else You're a dangerYou're a danger to every stranger You're a mess, yes, yes
