

The House That Heaven Built

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

When the soul of the city
Was laid to rest
And the nights forgotten and left for deadI happened on a house
Built of living light
Where everything evil disappears and diesWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow
And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hellWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow
And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hellI settled in slowly, to this house that you call home
To blood and breath, fear, flesh and boneWell shove our bodies in the heat of the night
All day the day after, blood in the skiesWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow
And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hellWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow
And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hellIts a lifeless life, with no fixed address to give
But your not mine to die for anymore
So I must liveBorn of a bottle, from heavens hand
And now you know and here I amWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow
And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hellWhen the love Me and they will I'll tell em all the love in your shadow
And if they try to slow me down
I'll tell em all to go to hellWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow
And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hellWhen they love you, and they will
Tell em all they'll love in my shadow

And if they try to slow you down
Tell em all to go to hell
