

Drugstore Perfume

Gerard Way

She waits at windows,
Her dreams don't show in colour,
And she sleeps for now,
But she just waits around,
Wishing she could leave single mothers
In parking lots and wear another girl's evening out,
This place lets you down easy She gets up to buy a drink,
I notice why when she walks by,
There's something caught in her eye She says
That she can't change for love,
And she explains how long she's waited for,
She wanted more Dead leaves, desperate summers,
All ages clubs and metal shutters
To keep you out,
While we hang around factories,
'Till we need each other,
Two discount lives and heavy numbers
To keep you down,
If I wait around, Maybe she might come back to say that I'm Not sure you know my name, that's fine,
But take me with you this time She says
That she can't change for love,
And she explains how long she's waited for,
She wanted more Gone today,
I might just see you around,
It hurts, but I understand
If you can find another reason not to stay,
And while she's walking away, She says
That she can't change for love,
And she explains how long she's waited for,
She wanted more And as these days go by,
Well, they can't change how long we've waited for
A love that's more,
A love that's more.
