

No Man No Cry

Kelly Rowland

No man, no cry, yeah I'm so sick about it
So wrong but I don't know what to do without it
My love, my time, my all invested in you so much I thought I'd never doubt it
Now it hurts so bad I wanna scream and shout it
Tell me what happened to the man
That promised the world and said You said that you would be there
Now it seems like you just don't care
And I'm not gonna take it anymore All of the years that I gave
All of these tears that I waste
I think it's time that I get on with my life Although I might be alone
I'm better on my own
Without you here I'm doing more than just fine
No man, no cry It feels good starting over
Me, myself and I through and through I thought I told ya
My independence day
I've found me a brand new life And though my heart is aching
I get a little stronger with each baby step I'm taking Looking back on what I left
I know what I'm doing is right You said that you would be there
Now it seems like you just don't care
And I'm not gonna take it anymore All of the years that I gave
All of these tears that I waste
I think it's time that I get on with my life Although I might be alone
I'm better on my own
Without you here I'm doing more than just fine
No man, no cry Look here see my eyes are dry
No tears when I said goodbye
You know better than to ask me why 'Cause I'm gone, so gone
Pack your bags, boy, it's time to carry on I'm taking back all that's mine All of the years that I gave
All of these tears that I waste
I think it's time that I get on with my life Although I might be alone
I'm better on my own
Without you here I'm doing more than just fine
No man, no cry All of the years that I gave
All of these tears that I waste
I think it's time that I get on with my life Although I might be alone
I'm better on my own
Without you here I'm doing more than just fine

No man, no cryNo cry
No man

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>