Recurring Dreams

What's Eating Gilbert

I have recurring dreams about you
I wanna tell you but I think you'll be scared
To know that I have recurring dreams about you
I close my eyes and you, always, are thereAlone with me
Sitting by a fire that we built on the beach, we lay down 'cause we're tired of the world
We know, we kiss and we let it all go
The sun set and sand turns to snow
I wake up in a pool of sweat
So confused as to where I'm atI have recurring dreams about you
I wanna tell you but I think you'll be scared
To know that I have recurring dreams about you
I close my eyes and you, always, are thereYou and I soaring above California
The city looks so still from here
With you in my hands, feeling like I'm Superman
I lay you down safe in your bed
I wake up, where have I been?
I can't believe it happened againAm I creep? I just want sleep
But how can I when you're there?
I'm not a creep, I just want sleep
But how can I when you're there? Oh-oh-oh-ohI have recurring dreams about you
I wanna tell you but I think you'll be scared
To know that I have recurring dreams about you
I close my eyes and you, always, are there(Shoop-shoop) You, always, are (Always, are there) [x2]
I close my eyes and you, always, are there
(Always, are there)
I close my eyes and you, always, are there
