

Warm

Jane Olivor

in the chill before the morning, i put my hand upon your cheek and your skin is soft as velvet - your face is flushed with sleep... and the rain outside the window plays a sad and lonely song - it feels so good beside you - i've been in the rain too long!

Warm, we keep each other warm -
we keep each other safe and sheltered from the storm.

Love, we may not call it love
but looking at the "loving" that i see, i'm happy just to be so warm.

we're neither of us children , we both have been around and we both know what it feels like getting lost and being found - and i'm learning to be grateful for the moments i can steal from the cold chill of the nighttime to the way you make me feel!

Warm, we keep each other warm -
we keep each other safe and sheltered from the storm.

Love, we may not call it love
but looking at the "loving" that i see, i'm happy just to be so warm.
