It Could Happen

Codeseven

It's not the way that wanted to way I thought it should be I got backed in a corner you're to blind to see you're not welcome here my life stands still waiting while I should press up and move on you took this dream you never agreed it's gone turn my head to your side something you said was true the part about me and you I shut you out of my life again you thought it would heal with time it's just a matter of reason if you could read my mind you're not welcome here my life stands still waiting while I should press up and move on you took this dream you never agreed it's gone turn my head to your side something you said was true the part about me and you you have singled me out this time but you have noticed that you always bring me down you have taken this game turn my head to your side something you said was true the part about me and you one look at you you're first mistake too afraid to be concerned too afriad to think I used to know you turne around and walk away I used to you know one day it could happen

.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/