Broken

Threering

Trying to get back to saner places
Sometimes the road won't always be there
Forgotten memories of a life lost somewhere
Tell me something... could you understand it?
Just take the demons that feed on my impulse
They only go away for so longThere's someone in my head
And I'm right back where I started
Some things, they never change
I'm broken againI've spent a lifetime running from monsters
But in hindsight, it's so easy to see
So far gone
So long as I'm breathing
Shocking reality, the monster is meThere's someone in my head
And I'm right back where I started
Some things, they never change
I'm broken againThe voices inside tell me what to believe
To lead a normal life... it's all I've ever wanted
To bankrupt the soul, leading parallel lives
Did you ever believe in our happy ever after?
Did you ever believe in our happy ever after?
Did you ever believe in our happy ever after?There's someone in my head
And I'm right back where I started
Some things, they never change
I'm broken again
