Gravity Happens

Kate Voegele

If your travels ever take you to sea
Well, then I'd say to you to dip in your feet
And if you battle the wind along the way
Well, then I'd tell you to challenge the waves
It's a world of peculiar people
And places that look nothing like home
But it keeps turning and turning even though
Gravity happens
We don't know it till after we've hit the ground
And the world's spinning faster
With each day that passes and each dashing hour
What am I to do?
And I've broken my parachute
So if gravity happens
Then I'll fasten wings to my shoes
I have gathered that the moments that shaped me
Were the ones that have tested my faith
And all that matters is the courage they gave me
I fell down and my fears were erased
In the wreckage of heartache and hindsight
A new beginning starts to unfold
And if you let it, it just might save your life
Because gravity happens
We don't know it till after we've hit the ground
And the world's spinning faster
With each day that passes and each dashing hour
What am I to do?
I've broken my parachute
If gravity happens
Then I'll fasten wings to my shoes
I'm not gonna let the world get me down
I got so much more to live for
And I'm starting right now
'Cause gravity happens
And we don't know it till after we've hit the ground
And the world's spinning faster
With each day that passes and each dashing hour
What am I to do?
I've broken my parachute

If gravity happens
Then I'll fasten wings to my shoes
