

Austin

Eric Johnson

I was born in austin
On a summer day
But medicine from Georgetown
Made me strong, on my way I would go to the Jade Room
On a tuesday eve
I was only fourteen
Kept my age up my sleeve Everyday we would celebrate
And play some music with friends
Looking through such a different sky
Way back then Oh we made some magic
Through the night till noon
We could tell it was happening
From the smoke in the room All those days out by the lake
Wind streaming through your hair
Had no reason to complicate
Not a care See the town expand now
Nothing stays the same
Watershed recedes now
Who's in charge? Who's to blame?
