

Masterpiece

Andy Grammer

Life is a canvas, a painting in my mind
Colors stay and spill outside the lines
I refuse to settle, never the black and white
Rock the neons until the day I die
I'm on a constant search to make my heart swell
Bite off too much, chew like hell
Half my nights spent in a hotel
Price I pay to escape the conveyor belt
One, you get one heartbeat so take it seriously
This is your masterpiece, don't forget to dream
And taste the colors in the air you breathe
It's your masterpiece, go ahead and fill it all
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Close my eyelids, take a deep breath
Feel the lightning down in my chest
I'm just a piece of art and the paint's fresh
'Cause I'm not near finished yet
I've got a pregnant mind that wants to give birth
Breathe life into these big words
I can hear the universe, in my ears she whispers.
One, you get one heartbeat so take it seriously
This is your masterpiece, don't forget to dream
And taste the colors in the air you breathe
It's your masterpiece, go ahead and fill it all
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
And if you settle for a normal life
Say you're afraid of heights
But you were meant to light the sky
This is your masterpiece, don't forget to dream
And taste the colors in the air you breathe
This is your masterpiece, go ahead and fill it all
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
Don't stop til it is beautiful
