Wheel

Anekdoten

My mind's falling down endless tunnels until I find myself in the void Somewhere down there I could hear them calling me through walls of silence I heard them weepThe wheel was just about to roll me over and for a moment I lost control Stars were falling and worlds colliding
I always knew that they would track me downTried so hard to break through to the surface, but entered into yet another dream I held tighter on to the lifeline and sensing light I broke free!

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/