Lay Your Weapon Down

Tim Miser

Billy crossed the county line at twenty five till eight thinkin about the thing that he had done Murder's an immortal crime that he cannot escape its bigger than the men that he'll outrun

Lay your weapon down boy, lay your weapon down you dont know the weight of what you do take a look around you boy take a look around wait till someone's aimin back at you

Judgment is a cannon fire that blows a friend away these are things that cannot be undone And all the Saints and glory to be careful what you say words are bullets fires are from a gun

Lay your weapon down boy, lay your weapon down
you dont know the weight of what you do
take a look around you boy take a look around
wait till someone's aimin back at you
Lay your weapon down boy, lay your weapon down
you dont know the weight of what you do
take a look around you boy take a look around
wait till someone's aimin back at you
wait till someone's aimin back at you
