

Never Blame The Rainbows For The Rain

Moody Blues

Sailing along the river of time
Adrift on dreams through midnight chimes
Positively frozen, crystal waterfalls
The mountain of hope is there to be climbed
The sea of serenity is rightfully mine
Step on to the water knowing what is true
And never blame the rainbows for the rain
And learn to forget the memories
That cause you pain
The last whispered wish of age
Is to live it all again
So never blame the rainbows for the rain
The beat of my heart, the rhythm of love
The Earth that's beneath us, the Heavens above
I can hear forever, calling out to me
The changes we go through are making me strong
The shelter of friendship is where we belong
Look into the future knowing what we see
And never blame the rainbows for the rain
And learn to forget the memories
That cause you pain
The last whispered wish of age
Is to live it all again
So never blame the rainbows for the rain
The whirlpool of doubt can spin you around
The wave of emotion takes you up, pulls you down
Leaving far behind us, sweet young passions spray
And never blame the rainbows for the rain
And learn to forget the memories
That cause you pain
The last whispered wish of age
Is to live it all again
So never blame the rainbows for the rain
Never blame the rainbows for the rain
Never blame the rainbows for the rain

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>