Statues

Moloko

So goodnight my dear Hope youre feeling well Hope yourre feeling very clear In this song and rhyme Thoughts of changes that Keep ourselves intactAnd yes its hard to fake But Im faltering in the steps Im about to take I am sure, its true What is all for me is much the same to youIf all the statues in the world Would turn to flesh with teeth of pearl Would they be kind enough to comfort me The setting sun is set in stone And it remains for me alone To carve my own and set it freeSo we wait and see How this backward chapter reads In verse inadvertently And it feels like fading light But thats all thats left Only whats left is rightIf all the statues in the world Would turn to flesh with teeth of pearl Would they be kind enough to comfort me The setting sun is set in stone And it remains for me alone To carve my own and set it freeJumping from a balloon A carried aloft by a parachute in June Twisting round and round Well I hope the ground is what you find The setting sun is set in stone And it remains for me alone
