Dungeon Walls

The Briggs

Pacing back and forth
The only comfort is the sound
Of the clanking of the shackles
As each footstep hits the groundMade it through each lonely day
Only with the dream
Deep inside my heart
I know that someday I'd be freeStuck inside these walls
Drenched in misery
I only have myself to be
My own worst enemyImprisoned in my thoughts
Insanity is nigh
Rotting like a foul corpse
And running out of timeTurn the key, unlock the gate
I'm going home, I'm going home
Curse this place and every blessed stoneHooray! Hooray!
Out of the dungeon walls
Hooray! Hooray!
Never thought I'd see the light of day
Hooray! Hooray!
Out of the dungeon wallsSee the city lights
I can smell the salty breeze
And the wind as it call
I'm out of the dungeon wallsI fell to my knees
As I kissed the sweet night
Said goodbye as it vanished
Into the morning lightShed a tear for every line
I marked upon that wall
Everyday alive but Without living at allFreedom has its price
A price that I will pay
There's no fortune in this world
Worth losing one more dayI know I'll go to Heaven
I've already been to Hell
It's deep inside those dungeon walls
The place that I did dwellTurn the key, unlock the gate
I'm going home, I'm going home
Curse this place and every blessed stoneHooray! Hooray!
Out of the dungeon walls
Hooray! Hooray!

Never thought I'd see the light of day
Hooray! Hooray!
Out of the dungeon wallsSee the city lights
I can smell the salty breeze
And the wind as it call
I'm out of the dungeon wallsTurn the key, unlock the gate
I'm going home, I'm going home
Curse this place and every blessed stoneHooray! Hooray!
Out of the dungeon walls
Hooray! Hooray!
Never thought I'd see the light of day
Hooray! Hooray!
Out of the dungeon wallsSee the city lights
I can smell the salty breeze
And the wind as it call
I'm out of the dungeon wallsI'm out of the dungeon walls

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/