Should Have Known

Eric Lindell

I should have known
I should have known by now
I should have known
Yes, I should have known it was all aboutI should have known by the look in your eyes
There was something wrong
I should have known
Yes, I should have known what was going onBy the way you hold yourself I see
You've been through the misery
You've been through the pain
And heartache of loveI guess I should have known, I should have known
There was something wrong
I should have known
I should have known what was goin' onI should have known
By the way that you were, you were down
I should have known
I should have know it was all aboutBy the way you hold yourself I see
You've been through the misery
You've been through the pain
And heartache of loveI guess I should have known
I should have known by now
Yeah, I should have known
I should have known it was all aboutI should have known
By the way that you were there was something wrong
I should have known
I should have known what was goin' onBy the way you hold yourself I see
You've been through the misery
Yeah, you've been through the pain
And heartache of love

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/