Things Change

Less Than Jake

The hand you're dealt
Does it mean it's all over
On cruise control as life just drags us along
How does it feel
Now that the party's over
Is it too late for us to want something moreI know I'm late but it's ok because I'm on my way
You said you've had a hell of a time
But do you find peace of mind when things change
You told me it's been so hard to find
But do you look deep inside when things change
Isn't it strange
That we never keep up with
The breakneck pace, who we are how we were
Another case
Another reminder
The future's here and we want something moreI know I'm late but it's ok because I'm on my way
You said you've had a hell of a time
But do you find peace of mind when things change
You told me it's been so hard to find
But do you look deep inside when things change
Things change, things change
You know that things change
You know that things change
You know that things change
You know that things change
You said you've had a hell of a time
But do you look deep inside when things change, things change
You said you've had a hell of a time
But do you find peace of mind when things change, things change
You told me it's been so hard to find
Because the only thing constant is change
Things change, things change, things change
The only thing constant is change
You know that things change
You know that things change
The only thing constant is change
