

My Son Calls Another Man Daddy

David Allan Coe

Tonight my head is bowed in sorrow I can't keep the tears from my eyes

My son calls another man daddy the right to his love I've been denied

My son calls another man daddy he'll never know my name nor my face

God only knows how it hurts me for another to be in my place

[steel]

Each night I lay there in prison I pictured a future so bright

For he was my one ray of sunshine that shone through the darkness of night

Today his mother shares a new love she just couldn't stand my disgrace

My son calls another man daddy...

For another to be in my place
