

Don't Break My Heart Again (feat. Ted Poley)

Danger Danger

How many times do I have to get hurt
How many tears can I cry
Forgive and forget that's what you always said
Just like some well rehearsed line Well I made some mistakes that I'd like to forget
And I won't even try to pretend
But you're one mistake that I don't wanna make
And I swore this wouldn't happen again You want one more dance
Just one more chance
If I lay my love on the line Don't break my heart again, no
Don't break my heart again, no
Can't play that part again
And I never wanted to
Don't break my heart again Now my world is so empty without you
Since you left me and painted in black
And the rain outside my windows hangin' round and it won't go
'Til the day you come back No it ain't that easy
But I'll swallow my pride
I'll lay my love on the line Don't break my heart again, no
Don't break my heart again, no
Can't play that part again
And I never wanted to
Don't break my heart again Oh I couldn't take that anymore
I'm still healing from the wounds you left before
You know the scars run deep
But not as deep as my love for you
It cuts right through Don't break my heart again, no
Don't break my heart again, no
Can't play that part again
And I never wanted to
You want one more dance
Just one more chance
I'll lay my love on the line

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>