LOST AND FOUND

There's a big empty church, where the lights fill the room, when the sun hits the windows of glass. There's one little boy. sittin all alone wanting answers to the questions he's ask. Sometimes he wonders how he really feels,
Is there a God, is he really real.

Chorus

The suddenly straight from out of the blue he hears an angels voice ringing so true. Tears fill his eyes with a touch of a hand, and deep in his heart of hearts he understands that now, he's part of a Lost and Found.

There's a bench in the park, where the birds come to feed, and a gentle old man tells his tale. He talks about life and his family that's gone and how time has been turning him frail. But sometimes he wonders how he really feels, so he whispers a prayer are you really real.

Chorus

The suddenly straight from out of the blue he hears an angels voice ringing so true. Tears fill his eyes with a touch of a hand and deep in his heart of hearts he understands that now he's part of a Lost and Found

Tears fill his eyes with a touch of a hand, and deep in his heart of hearts he understands that now, he's part of a Lost and Found.

There's a little country church where the song fills the room cause they know they're a lost and found
