You've Got a Problem

Face to Face

So what's the problem, now this time?
I thought you'd learn by now that nothing ever works out right
You want to take away the edge
You tell me it's the only thing that helps you to forget, yesYou've made your promises
That's not enough this timeThere's only so much you can squander from a feeble mind
You've got a problem with your life, life
You've got a problem with your lifeYou've got a problem with your mind
Don't try to tell me that you think it's gonna work out fine
So go ahead and try to hide
The world around you watches on as you destroy your lifeDo what your problem says
There's not a lot of timeThere's only so much you can squander from a feeble mind
You've got a problem with your life, life
You've got a problem with your lifeLife, you've got a problem with your life
Life, you've got a problem with your life
Life, you've got a problem with your life
Life, you've got a problem with your life
