Help Me, Help You

Julianne Hough

Well, she started with a margarita Then she went to straight tequila And before the night was over

Oh her little secret was between usBut she laughed, I cried
And she said, "I'll be fine"Now she's barely walking and I'm thinking
Wonder how long she's been drinking like this
She looks me in the eye and says, "I swear I'm quitting"

I almost believed itThen she cried but she lies

'Cause that's what she said last Saturday nightHow am I supposed to help somebody

When they tell you that they don't need help

How am I suppose to reach a soul

That doesn't know they need to save themselvesMy friend, I've done all I can do You've got to help me, help youOh, I get home from work I turn the TV on

The telephone's ringing Her little girl is crying

Says, "I can't wake mama up from sleeping"Well, I burned that road opened up the door She says, "Leave me alone"How am I supposed to help somebody

When they tell you that they don't need help

How am I suppose to reach a soul

That doesn't know they need to save themselvesMy friend, I've done all I can do You've got to help me, help you

It's been four years

And now I stand in the back of the roomShe said, "I started with a margarita
Then I went to straight tequila
Twelve steps, four years and twenty-seven days
And now I stand before you

Help me, help you
